FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Author Talk with Salem-South Lyon District Library

The Salem-South Lyon District Library will virtually host local author and top comic book historian Ken Quattro on Monday, May 3 at 7:00 PM. As seen in the Detroit Free Press and the New York Times, his latest book, Invisible Men: The Trailblazing Black Artists of Comic Books, pulls back the curtain and shares stories of the individuals who broke into a world formerly occupied only by whites. Hear riveting, behind the scenes stories of the comic book industry's black contributors, including a descendent of one of George Washington's slaves, a former prisoner of Sing Sing, and Harlem Renaissance artists. Register by visiting the online events calendar at <http://www.ssldl.info> or by calling the Library at 248-437-6431. Zoom link will be sent to registrants before the event.

About Salem-South Library District Library: The Salem-South Lyon District Library was recently deemed one of America's STAR Libraries for 2018 by the Library Journal. Spotting "the best of the best" of libraries nationwide that exemplify service to the communities and excellent stewardship of their resources, it is a distinction awarded this year to only six libraries in the state of Michigan. For the past 80 years, we take great pride in offering services that reinforce our motto to "Educate. Enrich. Empower our Community."
