

FILMS OF THE GOLDEN AGE

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17
7:00PM TO 8:00PM

From the late 1920s through the end of World War II, studios like MGM, Warner Bros, and Paramount would dominate film production. The legacy of these years are among the best-loved and most significant films ever made. We'll examine the forces that made Hollywood the giant of global film-making during its Golden Age. Presented by Brian Rose, professor emeritus at Fordham University.
